

Luca Cucchetti DJ - Producer

Luca Cucchetti started his DJ career in 1982. In these 27 years he made millions of people dance... VIPs on the Costa Smeralda (Sardinia, Italy) and ravers all around Europe.

He can be defined as a "console chameleon", and has been playing in all the most important clubs in Rome in the 80's.

In the 90's he represented the roman rave scene, being its official voice on the radio, running his own show on "Radio Centro Suono"... and organizing parties like the Bresaola Rave and the Ombrellaro Dance Festival. He also founded and managed the best club in Rome, the "Qube". He shared the console with some of the most well known techno artists, and produced the famous "The House of God" remix, that became the worldwide hit everyone knows.

He played in Holland, USA, Belgium. Starting from the new century, he brought to life events like "Muccassassina" and "Gay Village"... he played at Rome's Gay Pride, Super Paradise and Space in Mykonos (greece).

Luca Cucchetti is one of the most complete DJs in the world, always ready to experiment and try new things. He spends his life between music, clubs and music production.

He started his own record label, "Quarto Miglio Quality Music", for which he produced his first album together with saxophone player Eric Daniels.

In 2009 he released another personal album called "da Nessun dorma a Oh God in my ass", which contains 14 tracks exploring music from classica to dance.

In 2009 Luca played at the Ground Zero festival (on 2 stages) and at the well renowned Dance Valley Festival, two huge events in Holland.

At the moment he's art director of two radio shows, "Club Radio FM" in Rome and the webradio "Radio Music Dance". He's free-lancing around in clubs, being booked for different music genres/styles and his ability of making everybody dance, even bar tables.

Preferred music genre: music for crocodiles (everything, as long as it good and makes people dance!).
